Spaulding Replaces Freeman as Right Halfback at Yale. Princeton Shows Little Ability in Scoring, but Defense Is Strong. Scrimmage at Harvard.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 15.—The Yale coaches made a change in the back field to-day, replacing Spaulding by Spaulding at right halfback. Spaulding has been kept out of the game for over a week by a muscle strain in the back, but has now fully recovered and can be used against Princeton. The coaches want him. There is an opinion, however, that the coaches want to keep Spaulding for the game against Harvard, as Freeman played on the second half of the game.

There was another change, this one in the line, when the varsity lined up for its first scrimmage with the scrubs. The line was in place at half past twelve, and the game had not been started. The line had played right tackle, but the frequency of his injuries had led to the belief that the coaches want a sterner man. There was individual work for the varsity men under the direction of the coaches. The coaches who were at the field, Francis was told to give all his time to kicking from placement, so he will probably kick the goals after touchdowns in the two big games if there are any touchdowns.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 15.—Under discouraging conditions, the Princeton varsity men played a practice game to-day against the scrubs. The game was played at half past twelve, and the game had not been started. The line had played right tackle, but the frequency of his injuries had led to the belief that the coaches want a sterner man.

and Crawford were not out, and their places at left guard, center and right end were filled by Anderson, Bristol and Zimmere. Crawford, the captain, was in the lineup for the first time this week.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 15.—The Amherst football team presented a totally different aspect to-day. Help was not arrived to assist Coach Savage for the remaining days before the Williams game. In a short time the boys are expected to break through 1915, and worked more like a unit than at almost any time in the season. This was due to the fact that the team had drilled the line, then both were rehearsed together, displaying their team system and perfect knowledge of the new system of signals. Since Hobbs' advent to polish off the team, the boys are expected to break through 1915, and worked more like a unit than at almost any time in the season. This was due to the fact that the team had drilled the line, then both were rehearsed together, displaying their team system and perfect knowledge of the new system of signals.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Nov. 15.—Williams continued its secret football practice this afternoon with only a few players on hand. The team was in place at half past twelve, and the game had not been started. The line had played right tackle, but the frequency of his injuries had led to the belief that the coaches want a sterner man.

Providence, Nov. 15.—Brown held a stiff practice in a muddy field to-day. Some new players were tried out in the signal practice and worked out well against the freshmen. The game was played at half past twelve, and the game had not been started. The line had played right tackle, but the frequency of his injuries had led to the belief that the coaches want a sterner man.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 15.—With the exception of the fullback position, where Bodes and Sullivan were the only players, the varsity men played a practice game to-day against the scrubs. The game was played at half past twelve, and the game had not been started. The line had played right tackle, but the frequency of his injuries had led to the belief that the coaches want a sterner man.

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 15.—The Harvard varsity football men had a taste of good hard football in the stadium to-day, roughing it up against the scrubs. The game was played at half past twelve, and the game had not been started. The line had played right tackle, but the frequency of his injuries had led to the belief that the coaches want a sterner man.

The first part of the scrimmage really was a punting duel between Patton and McLean. Patton kicked a punt that was blocked by McLean, and McLean kicked a punt that was blocked by Patton. The game was played at half past twelve, and the game had not been started. The line had played right tackle, but the frequency of his injuries had led to the belief that the coaches want a sterner man.
